SUMMARY

I've always found it challenging to fit into a single role, but that's led me to develop a broad skill set as a generalist. This flexibility, combined with my love for comedy, has led me to the world of comedy production, where I am the most effective when I can see projects through from A to Z. I want to learn more about all aspects of production, and I'm excited for the journey ahead and the experiences it will bring.
